DISCLAIMER

The AACN desires to support a variety of forums that facilitate the exchange of ambulatory care nursing information, opinions, and comments.

AAACN does not necessarily endorse, support, sanction, encourage, verify, or agree with the comments, opinions, or statements expressed in these forums or otherwise contained within any electronic sites. Any shared information or material, including advice and opinions, are the views of those who make the statements and do not necessarily represent the views of AAACN.

Participating individuals should not use these forums to induce, solicit, attempt to induce or solicit, or in any manner promote their individual or company products and services to other participants. Individual products or services should not be promoted in AAACN supported forums unless approved in writing by AAACN.

AAACN, the AAACN Website Advisory Committee, and AAACN's management company and service providers do not assume responsibility for the content offered nor do the parties assume responsibility for or endorse the content presented within any Internet website associated with or linked to our site.

We do not and, cannot, warrant or represent that any information provided is the most current information on the subject or topic. We cannot guarantee that the electronic edition of publications on our site is free of errors or omissions. Readers are advised to consult the print edition of each publication for the authoritative text.
